15th July 2015

To whom it may concern,

The Dreamtime Project is a long-term strengths based program which provides the framework with focussed activities towards building self esteem, empowerment and assisting our young Aboriginal women and girls in their own journey of self discovery to pursue further education, careers and sustainable businesses that will drive economic independence.

The program creates happier people, stronger communities, leadership, encourages entrepreneurship, and nurtures creativity.

We are delighted that Ms. Sara Bergmann has been selected to participate in The Dreamtime Project Cross Cultural experience to New York 6th - 18th September 2015.

This experience is part of The Dreamtime Project Social & Cultural Wellbeing program which is strongly focussed on leadership and culture, connecting Aboriginal youth with First Nations youth globally. The aim is to broaden our young Aboriginal women's mind to other cultures which will further enhance personal development, problem solving and experiential learning.

Your valuable direct investment of $6,000 will assist Sara in fulfilling her leadership role.

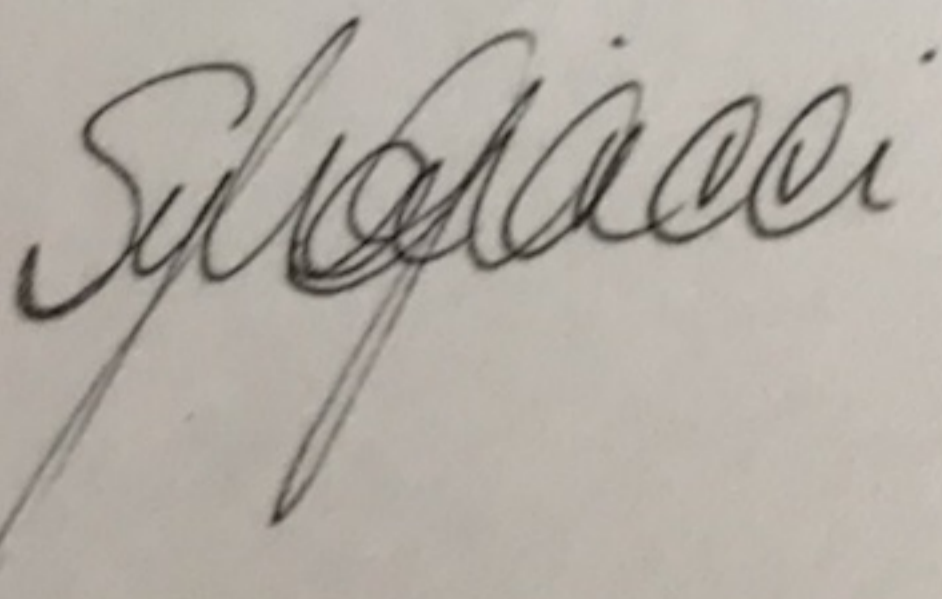

We invite you as a sponsor to follow Sara's journey which will make a valuable difference in her life that will inspire other young Aboriginal girls to follow.

As a sponsor you will receive in return:

- Live streaming direct from New York.
- A visual diary through social media and blogging.
- Sara to wear your company T-shirt
- A personally written thank you card.
- Sara to attend your company event to share her story.

Aboriginal young women and girls must be given equitable opportunities to live a life which is fruitful and sustainable. We do hope that you will join us, not only in making a social investment but becoming part of the change to give young Aboriginal women life changing experiences.

kindest regards,
